

Prof Alessandra Zambonelli is full professor of Botany. She has been working on applied mycology since 1981 and has been responsible for both national and international projects. She participates at the project 1kFG: Deep Sequencing of Ecologically relevant Dikaria. She was member of the scientific and or/organizing committee of several national and international conferences. She is the President of the European Confederation of Mediterranean Mycology (CEMM) and of the Italian Mycological Society Unione Micologica Italiana (UMI) and an honorary member of the New Zealand Truffle Association. She is member of OPTIMA, and of the Italian "National Agricultural Academy". She has contributed to 235 scientific articles published in international and Italian journals, books or proceedings (h index Scopus 26). She is co-Author of the book "Taming the truffle. The history, lore and science of the ultimate mushroom" published by Timber press. She is co-editor of two Springer books of Soil series.