

Luca Marchiol has a Degree in Agricultural Sciences and a PhD in Crop Production. He is Associate Professor at the University of Udine (I). Director of 2nd degree in "Land and Environment Science and Technology", joint Master between the University of Udine and University of Trieste. Member of the PhD Course in Life Sciences (Univ. Trieste and Univ. Udine). His teaching activity covers Ecosystems Ecology and Environmental Restoration. The research activities are focused on plant ecophysiology and abiotic stress, metal hyperaccumulators, phytoremediation and relationships between engineered nanomaterials and plants. Author of more than 120 publications.