

Graduated as a Biologist from the University of Catania in Italy, Dr Giuliano started his career by expanding scientific knowledge and technological skills in research institution abroad, finally obtaining a PhD in Pharmacological Disciplines from the University of London in 2001. He then joined SIFI S.p.A, a pharmaceutical company specialised in ophthalmology. Appointed Manager of the Preclinical Research and Development area in recent years, he has driven the expansion of research capabilities in view of two multimillion public grants focussing on drug repurposing and on the development novel nanostructured carriers for the treatment of degenerative pathologies of the retina.