

He has graduated in Material Science at Mendel University in Brno, in 2016. During the doctoral studies received Fulbright Scholarship and year worked as a Visiting Scientist at the Oregon State University (USA) on a project dealing with micromechanics of natural composites and Finite Element Modeling of mechanical failures. One year of his doctoral degree was also working at WKI Fraunhofer Institut in Braunschweig dealing with micro-swelling of natural composites. Since 2016 is working as the Application Specialist in field of Material Science in TESCANA ORSAJ HOLDING, a.s., Brno, Czech Republic.