

Fund for Infrastructure and Educational Programs: areas of activities and international cooperation

Alexey KACHAY, Fund for Infrastructure and educational programs (RUSNANO Group)

Abstract: Fund for Infrastructure and Educational Programs (part of RUSNANO group) – one of the key innovation development institution in Russian Federation that creates an infrastructure for nanotechnological and other related high-tech sectors of the economy. In particular, the Fund's tasks include providing human resources for the nanoindustry, creating the necessary regulatory base to work efficiently, and creating and stimulating demand for innovative products. The Fund also supports the nanocentre network which helps to foster an environment for technological entrepreneurs in Russian regions to flourish.