

Maria J. Mosquera is a Full Professor at Physical-Chemistry Department (University of Cadiz). She has developed innovative materials for application in building for 20 years. She is also expertise in Cultural Heritage conservation.

Prof. Mosquera has authored more of 80 papers. She has also supervised 6 Doctoral Thesis and several Master and Degree Projects. She has has been invited as a speaker for numerous conferences. She has also been the senior investigator of 12 funded projects and 10 relevant research contracts with companies. She is also the coordinator of the H2020 project InnovaConcrete recently funded by the European Union.

Regarding to the research transference, Prof. Mosquera is inventor of 8 patents, being 5 of them under exploitation contracts with different multinational companies. She has also got 4 awards regarding with the transference activities. Finally, Prof Mosquera is in the committee scientific of several international conferences. She is also member of the editorial committee of the journal "Coatings" and she has been chair of the International Conference TechnoHeritage 2017.